MOSES— In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs Mary W. Moses, who entered into eternal rest January 15, 1940.

Treasured thoughts of mother dear
Often bring a silent tear.
Thoughts return of loyal duty past
Time rolls on out memories last.

No one knows the silent heartache
Only those who have lost can tell.
The grief that is borne in silence,
For the mother I loved so well.

I think of you in silence,
Your name I often recall.
There is nothing left to answer,
But your picture on the wall.

Deep in my heart is a picture,
Of a mother laid to rest,
In memory's frame I will keep it,
Because it was one of the best.

Mrs. Kimball and Mrs. Worthington, dressed soberly and wearing their best black gloves, walked along the stony country road back toward Sophia Hardy's farm, to pay their visit of condolence.

"How do you reckon she'll be bearing up?" Mrs. Kimball asked Mrs. Worthington. Both ladies wore their most solemn, funereal expressions.

"A mighty severe blow," Mrs. Worthington said. "Mighty severe. To lose your only son, the mainstay of your declining years. And such a dreadful death, too—to go down with a ship. Mercy!"

"The first of our boys from Hand County to go, too," Mrs. Kimball said, mournfully. "I wouldn't blame Sophia Hardy for feeling right bitter."

They stood on the simple stone doorstep, with downcast eyes, getting themselves into the proper commiserative mood.

"Come in!"

The voice was brisk and cordial. They looked up in surprise. Sophia herself had come to the door. As they followed her into the parlor they exchanged glances, with eyebrows lifted. Sophia was not even in mourning. The parlor shades were not even drawn.

"It's nice of you to come," Sophia said. "Do sit down."

"We came," Mrs. Kimball said almost reprovingly, "to tell you that our hearts are bleeding for you in your great loss."

"We know how lonely you must be out here," Mrs. Worthington said. "With nothing to take your mind off . . . off . . ." She sniffed and reached in her purse for a handkerchief.

"Oh, I keep busy," Sophia said. "I've just finished applying for the Government insurance on Tom's life."

The visiting ladies could not resist a shocked glance at one another.

"I want to get it right away," Sophia said. "So I can put it into War Bonds. My boy hasn't finished fighting yet, not by a long shot."

The ladies were occupied with feeling horrified, so titillated by this callous behavior in a bereaved mother—that neither of them noticed Sophia's hands. Under the folds of her clean print dress, against the seat of her chair, they were tightly clenched.

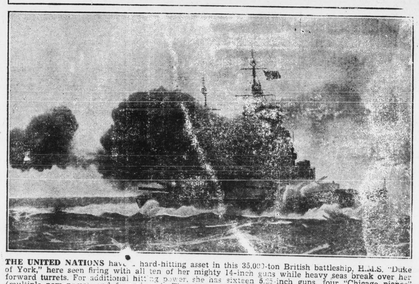
British Sea Fortress



THE UNITED NATIONS have a hard-hitting asset in this 35,000-ton British battleship, H.M.S. "Duke of York," here seen firing with all ten of her mighty 14-inch guns while heavy seas break over her forward turrets. For additional hitting power she has sixteen 5.25-inch guns, four "Chicago pianos" (multiple pom-poms), and four aircraft. The aircraft are launched by catapult and are manned by Britain's intrepid Fleet Air Arm. H.M.S. IS YOUR HOME SAFE?

The American Red Cross is providing a check-list for accident hazards to assist young people, homemakers, farmers and teachers in the discovery and correction of conditions which commonly lead to accidental injuries and deaths in and about the home and on the farm. This check list may be kept as a reminder, and for further checking.

By preventing accidents we can save the doctor many unnecessary trips. This will save gas and time, which are very scarce. Won't you help this much in the war effort? It will not take very long to correct these small hazards, but it will re-build a home or mend a broken bone.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Save now to buy later, after the War. That's good common sense because if you spend now, you help to drive prices up for everything you buy. Durable goods are scarce so invest in War Bonds today and do that house remodeling when Victory is won.

If you have not done so, join a Payroll Savings Plan at your office or factory. If you are not investing at least ten percent in War Bonds, increase your regular deductions on your Payroll Savings Plan. Let's "Top that ten percent."

Martin's Hen Does Her Bit!

At least one Appomattox county white leghorn hen has gone to war! Heeding the appeal for bigger and better egg production, and timing her "all-out" effort to coincide with Farm Mobilization Day, a hen belonging to Hunter F. Martin laid a tremendous egg, weighing seven ounces Monday of this week. The egg was more than the equal of a turkey egg. Mr. Martin brought it by the Times-Virginian office today, and carried it on to the county agent's office for exhibit. He said he had been raising poultry for sixteen years, and that this was the largest hen egg he had ever seen.

Deposits and total resources of the two banks at Appomattox are the largest in all the history of the county. Not even the boom world War I days saw anything like the present peak.

Deposits at the two local banks, as of January first, were $1,263,476.06.

Total resources of the two banks as of that date were $1,421,083.32.

A big factor in this picture is the amazing volume of timber business carried on in the county. It is estimated that over 250 cars a month of mine props are being shipped from loading points in the county, thus putting thousands of dollars of money into circulation here.
